

Lewis class part of the Formal learning approach's 'non core offer.' The class is based at Loose with a small group of key stage 2 pupils, who require a smaller bespoke environment to foster social, emotional, and academic development.

Collaboration with families is a key component and strengthens the pupils' understanding of school and societal expectations that equips them with the skills to grow into independent young people. Recognising that many pupils may find traditional educational tasks overwhelming, the curriculum incorporates functional skills, with pupils gradually building the confidence needed to embrace new challenges and succeed.
